

Louise Curley
MSc (PAM) BSc (Hons) MCSP AACP ACPSM BAPAM
Specialist MSK, Sports & Performing Arts Physiotherapist

Louise is a specialist musculoskeletal, sports and performing arts physiotherapist. She graduated with a BSc (Hons) in physiotherapy from Keele University in 2004 and furthered her professional development by completing an MSc in Performing Arts Medicine at University College London where she was awarded a distinction in 2015.

Louise works in private practice in Warwickshire treating athletes of all ages and levels (swimming, ice skating, gymnastics, track and field, dance) and for the British Association of Performing Arts Medicine in London. For over ten years she has provided physiotherapy support for British Gymnastics at both national and international events including European and World Championships, the World Games, and the Olympics.

Recently Louise was delighted to have been invited to present her MSc research at the annual British Association of Performing Arts Medicine conference in London and to provide a core control training session to both national and international level coaches at the annual British Gymnastics Rhythmic Symposium held at the Lilleshall National Sports Centre.

Louise's professional experience and post graduate studies have provided her with a wealth of knowledge in screening and movement analysis for injury prevention, advanced rehabilitation and adolescent athlete development. This experience ideally places Louise to offer effective assistance for athletes of all ages and levels with queries regarding optimising performance, minimising injury risk and aiding recovery.
